

ABSTRACT

A photographing game machine in which a camera-type input device allowing a subject included in a photo shooting range to be seen through a window is used, and when a game screen including a target to be photographed is displayed, game operations are performed based on a position on the game screen at which this camera-type input device is pointed, a photographing game processing method and an information storage medium are disclosed.

09363062-052101

Express Mail #EL71979523605